Historical simulations are a great way to learn about baseball history and to see how different teams would have fared against each other.

Creating Your Own Baseball Universe

OOTP also allows you to create your own baseball universe. You can create your own teams, leagues, and even stadiums. This gives you the freedom to create the baseball world of your dreams.

Creating your own baseball universe is a great way to experiment with different rules and settings. You can create a league with different playoff formats, or you can create a league with different player development systems. The possibilities are endless.
